

PAUL SEYFERT IS VICTIM OF ACCIDENT

AUTO SKIDS ON ICY ROAD TUESDAY EVE

Death Occurs Near Home of Wife's Parents in New Hampshire at 10 p. m.

WELL KNOWN HERE

Body to be Brought Here for Services

Many residents of this city were shocked early Wednesday to learn of the untimely death of Paul Reber Seyfert, aged 40, son of Mrs. M. C. Seyfert, 119 S. Pickaway-st., which occurred within two miles of Cannan, New Hampshire, Tuesday at 10 p. m. Mr. Seyfert, a native of this city, and widely known, was instantly killed when his automobile skidded on icy pavement and struck a telephone pole.

Mr. Seyfert was going to the home of his wife's parents, where his wife is ill, in Cannan when the accident occurred. He had driven within two miles of his destination, 90 miles north of Boston.

FUNERAL HERE

The body is to be brought to this city for funeral services and interment in charge of the At-bergh Co. Since it is not certain when the remains will arrive here arrangements for funeral rites are not complete.

Mr. Seyfert was born in this city Oct. 19, 1891, a son of Max C. and Ella Reber Seyfert. His father was a native of Germany and his mother of Fairfield. He graduated from the local high school and advanced his education at the Conservatory of Music at Boston, Mass., where he graduated with honors. His occupation was as a musician and a salesman of musical instruments. He was a salesman for the Grossman Musical house and for the Wilson Co., both of Cleveland, where he made his home.

WED IN BOSTON

While in Boston Mr. Seyfert met Miss Marian Currier whom he married Oct. 2, 1916. There were no children.

He entered the World War and held the rank of sergeant-major. He did not seek active service in the war, however, being stationed at Springfield, Mass. He was a member of the local lodge of Elks. Surviving besides the widow are his mother, Mrs. Ella M. Seyfert, two brothers, Carl of this city, and a sister, Miss Hulda E., of this city.

Mr. Seyfert had visited here last Thursday leaving Friday.

Abandonment Is Father's Charge

Judge E. A. Brown in probate court Wednesday was hearing the case of Guy Houston, of Grange Hall, Monroe-twp., who is charged with abandonment and poor parental care of five children.

Judge Brown will determine whether or not the children should be made dependents of probate court.

Richard Simkins is attorney for the children and George G. Adkins represents Mr. Houston.

61 DIVORCED

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 23.—Divorces as Christmas presents had been presented to 61 unhappy wives and husbands today by three Franklin-county judges.

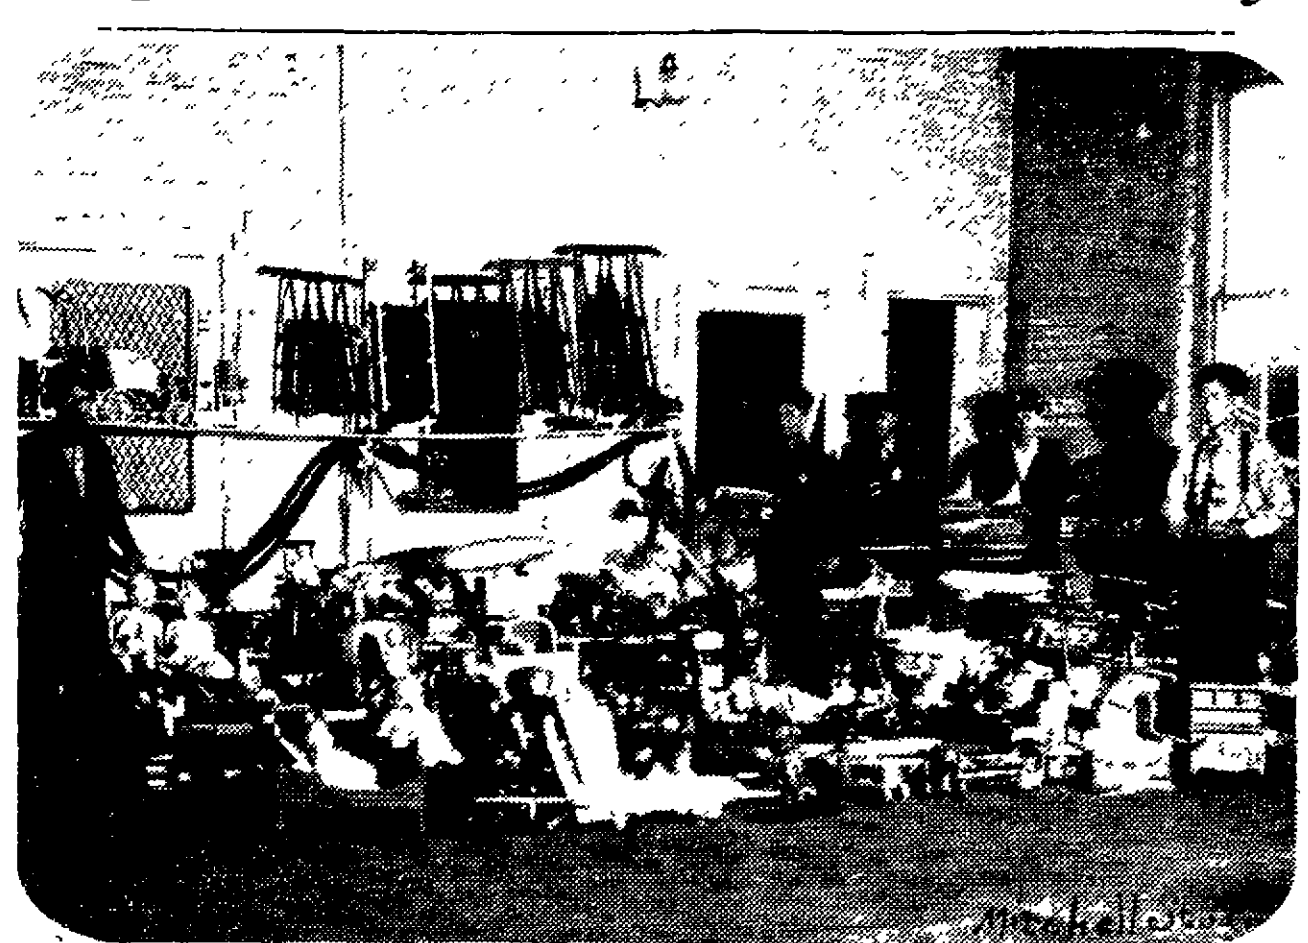

The speeds holiday was Judge Dana F. Reynolds, who disposed of eight cases in 15 minutes.

Mrs. Alveta Lewis submitted one of the most striking reasons for getting a divorce. She said her husband, Robert M. Lewis, formerly of the Mansfield reformatory, and now of Ohio Penitentiary, gave the minister who married them a check that came back marked "insufficient funds."

STEEPS STOLEN

Barton Walters, attorney, is counsel for the defendant in the case of the State of Ohio against William Hauser of Clarksville, charged with larceny as he is alleged to have stolen three steers from E. L. Mettler. The trial is underway in Fairfield court.

M'NAUGHT TO SPEAK HERE

Superintendent of Anti-Saloon League Will Talk at Church of Brethren.

S. E. McNaught, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Ohio, will occupy the pulpit of the Church of the Brethren at Sunday morning services, according to an announcement by the pastor, Rev. L. D. Young, Wednesday.

Mr. McNaught is a forceful speaker and a leader and has shown the courage to attack difficult situations, and the perseverance to carry them through to successful completion.

He is a native of Muskingum-co and gained his education at Muskingum college, Miami University and the law school of the University of Indiana.

In 1910 he was appointed a district superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League and later became superintendent of the Indiana league and also deputy Attorney General of the state. In 1923 he was chosen superintendent of the Iowa Anti-Saloon League and remained in that position until he was elected superintendent of the Ohio league in February, 1930.

HOOVER WAR DEBT PLAN IS APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—After ratifying President's Hoover's $250,000,000 war debt moratorium, members of Congress were scattering today for a two-weeks Christmas vacation, with action on all economic relief legislation awaiting the new year.

The moratorium was approved by the senate at a late night session 69 to 12 after a militant band of opponents had lashed it for two days as a Christmas gift to international bankers and European nations at the expense of American taxpayers. The opposition's terrific battle against such generosity to Europe, while 7,000,000 Americans were unemployed, failed to make any dent in the pledges of support secured by the president last summer.

OHIO FAIR TO BAR LUXURIES IN 1932

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 23.—With $50,000 whacked off its budget, the 1932 Ohio State Fair will be compelled to eliminate all its "luxuries" and become strictly an agricultural exposition, State Director of Agriculture I. S. Guthery declared today.

Governor George White's reduction for a 15 per cent reduction in expenditures in 1932 will cut $30,000 for the 1932 fair budget, Guthery said. In addition, there will be a $50,000 reduction which was ordered by the legislative finance committee when they drew up the 1932 budget, leaving $170,000 to meet all expenses.

Mrs. John F. Small of Norfolk, Va. who has been visiting her sister Mrs. J. K. Knowles and family in Toledo, the past few weeks, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. C. Darst, W. Main-st.

FIREMEN TO DISTRIBUTE TOY GIFTS

For the first time in the history of Circleville needy children will be given a Christmas treat of toys when firemen distribute a large amount of toys and playthings on Christmas eve and Christmas morning. The number of toys the department has and the number of places on the list to take toys to mean that the members of the department have a task on their hands.

A list of names of needy families has been obtained by firemen from the Benevolent Association and these families of worthy poor will be taken care of.

Every kind of toy imaginable has been presented to the fire department for distribution. Residents of the city who have been so good as to give toys to firemen to paint and repair should be thanked. Most of the prizes for this good work go to the firemen, themselves, for without their kind cooperation the work could never have been carried out.

Let us hope that rehabilitation of toys to be given needy children can be continued each Christmas.

3 CO. STREAMS ORDERED SHUT

Ohio Conservation Department
Closes Scioto River, Deer-creek and Saltcreek.

Three streams in Pickaway-co are included in the four thousand miles of Ohio rivers and creeks which will be closed to fishing effective Jan. 1, 1932, for two years to permit restocking with fish, according to an announcement today by William M. Reinhart, state conservation commissioner, who ordered the streams closed in compliance with a four year program intended to restore good fishing in all sections of Ohio.

Deercreek and all tributaries from its source to the Scioto river and Saltcreek and Little Saltcreek from their sources to the Scioto river will be closed to fishing during this time.

CLOSE 4,000 MILES

The 4,000 miles to be closed in 1932 and 1933 represent approximately one-third of the streams in the state. In 1932, another third will be closed for two years and in 1934 the final third will be posted for a similar period.

Signs will be posted 20 to a mile along the banks of the streams. The main river systems to be posted are:

Scioto and tributaries 890 miles; Muskingum river, northern tributaries 844 miles; Mauder Valley 332 miles; Sandusky Valley 317 miles; Erie region from east of Sandusky to the Pennsylvania line 450 miles; Little Miami Valley 235 miles; and Big Miami region, 495 miles.

DIAMOND CASE NEAR SOLUTION

Authorities Promise Arrests In Murder in Short Time;
New York Center.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 23.—Arrest of the slayers of Jack (Legs) Diamond in New York within 48 hours is expected, District Attorney John T. Delaney, announced early today after a conference with a detective from that city.

Refusing to divulge the identity of the detective who came here and conferred with him, the Albany prosecutor said:

"We have good reason to believe that the Diamond killers will be taken into custody in New York City within a short time."

Screen Actress, Writer Engaged

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Confirmation of another budding romance, which will link two famous persons of the stage and literary world, was given today.

Jean Bennett, screen actress, and Gene Markey, writer, are engaged and will be married soon, Mrs. Eric S. Pinker, Miss Bennett's mother, announced.

Miss Bennett, youngest of the three daughters of Richard Bennett, is in Hollywood, as is Markey.

She recently recovered from serious injuries sustained last summer in a fall from a horse.

Miss Bennett married John Marion Fox when she was 16, divorcing him two years later.

CHRISTMAS WAS DIFFERENT SEVENTY YEARS AGO SAYS DR. CLARKE IN REMINISCING

In these days of non-fireplaces, but instead furnaces, steam heat and the like, Dr. Hartley R. Clarke, W. Union-st., 82-year-old dentist, doesn't understand how the parents of today explain to their children how Santa Claus comes down the chimney with a pack on his back on Christmas eve. This was an easy matter to get across to the kids seventy years ago, when Dr. Clarke was a boy as nothing but old-fashioned log-fire places were in common, but today none are found.

Dr. Clarke also remembers other peculiarities of the Christmas of nearly 80 years ago. Very few people of the town had Christmas trees during his time. Possibly a few Germans and New Englanders. Seventy years ago, Dr. Clarke says, Christmas was not as large an event as far as big times were concerned as was Thanksgiving when more celebration was held. His ancestors were English and naturally made a greater event of Thanksgiving.

TELLS OF PRESENTS

"When I was a boy," Dr. Clarke said, "before we went to bed on Christmas eve we would put a plate on the table and then on Christmas morning when we came down to breakfast our gifts would

MARCHED TO GRAVE
Former Turns Pale Standing Beside Grave

A dramatic scene was enacted at the newly-turned grave of the late John Kidney in Hebron cemetery, Monroe-twp., Tuesday when Walker Brown, 35, giant negro, and Henry Loudermilk, 47, white, alleged instigator of the plot which resulted fatally for Mr. Kidney, were taken to the resting place of the widely known blacksmith and farmer.

Handcuffed, each on one side of Ed Hamilton, held in the county jail on a misdemeanor charge, the two men, indicted by the grand jury with four others for the murder of Mr. Kidney, were taken to the Hebron cemetery by Sheriff Charles Radcliff, Franklin-co. Deputy Sheriff Larry Van Skaik, and Deputy Bob Armstrong.

MARCHED TO GRAVE

Marched through the cemetery, between tombstones and grave markers, the two men seemed to sense where they were going. Both appeared nervous.

When the party reached the site of the grave mixed emotions could be found on the faces of the two men. But the emotions were much different.

Henry Loudermilk, who, officers say, is responsible for the entire crime by telling his negro colleague to shoot.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—Ambushed, Marvin Hart, Chicago bootlegger and racketeer, was shot and killed today by two men who escaped in a fast automobile.

Police know Hart as a one-time member of the Chicago gang of "Bugs" Moran.

Hart also had been questioned in connection with the $40,000 kidnapping of Zeke Carass, Tijuana gambler.

RADCLIFF PRAISES STATE ASSOCIATION IN CRIME SOLUTION

The efficiency and activities of the newly organized Buckeye State Sheriffs' Association was praised by Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff, Wednesday as one of the biggest reasons why the men blamed for the robbery and murder of John Kidney, 75, were captured in such short order.

"Without the cooperation of the sheriff's departments of surrounding counties, especially Franklin-co., our hands would have been almost tied in an effort to obtain the apprehension of the men, the four negroes and one white man. As soon as the brutal murder of Mr. Kidney took place sheriffs of surrounding counties began investigations in which they thought they might be able to throw light on the case. Thinking that possibly the men were from Columbus, Sheriff Hays and in Fayette-co. two of his deputies, Larry Van Skaik and O. E. Walker, to work on the case from every angle. Both these men deserve credit for their efforts as do several other members of the Franklin-co. force and Deputy Marshall Goins, of Hanford Village, negro settlement in East Columbus," Sheriff Radcliff stated.

ALL ASSISTED

"On the other sides of us, Madison-co. worked diligently in an effort to ascertain whether finger prints might be obtained which would do some good in the investigation. Deputy Clark was on the job much of the time. In Ross-co., Officer Rinehart of Chillicothe, aided to obtain and prove some finger prints and in Fayette-co. the sheriff and his force there volunteered their services in an effort to apprehend the culprits," the Sheriff continued.

"It all goes to show that the new feeling of cooperation instilled into the sheriff's departments is going to be a great help when it comes to law enforcement and apprehension of criminals from now on."

PRAISES DEPUTIES

"But all the credit in this case should not go to outsiders," Sheriff Radcliff averred. "My deputies worked hard after hour, day after day, and remained out of bed as long as 24 hours at a time more than once during the investigation of this case and the subsequent arrests. Each was enthusiastic over the solution of the murder and each ran down every available lead when the case appeared to be facing a wall with no good clues appearing. I give much credit to my deputies, Bryan Custer, Bob Armstrong and Miller Fissell, whose work during this period has been far above reproach."

Prosecuting Attorney Emmitt L. Crust was also lauded in Radcliff's statement for the effort he expended in trying to clear up the case.

11-YEAR-OLD BOY MISSING; FEAR IS FELT

Lived in Neighborhood in Which Girl's Mangled
Body Was Found

CITY IS IN UPROAR
Belt is Clue in McLean
Girl's Death

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 23.—While police and detectives were working desperately to solve the mystery surrounding the murderous criminal attack upon six-year-old Marian McLean another child—a 11 year-old boy—was reported missing, possibly kidnapped, from the neighborhood where the McLean girl's tortured body was found yesterday.

HUNT MADMAN

The latest missing child, whose authorities fear has fallen victim of the same degenerate madman who brutally murdered Marian, is William Hornsby, 11.

He disappeared, according to reports to the police headquarters from 310 East 12th Street, Sunday afternoon. Marian's body was found in the basement of a street house at 429 East 12th Street.

The Hornsby lad was described to police as being four feet in height, weighing about 75 pounds. He had blue eyes and light brown hair. At the time of his disappearance he was wearing khaki knee pants, a tan shirt and hard black shoes.

MAN IS GRILLED

The tenement house from which the Hornsby lad disappeared is the residence of one of the men who is being grilled by authorities in connection with the McLean slaying, it was said.

News of the second possible kidnapping struck fear into the city, already incensed over the cruel fate of the McLean girl, and particularly the neighborhood of East 12th street where the mangled slain first discovered victim.

The report of the Hornsby lad's disappearance came as the entire detective and police force of the city was concentrated upon solving the McLean case.

PAY DELINQUENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Approximately 83,000 farmers who borrowed money from the federal farm loan bank were delinquent on Nov. 30, last, Paul Bestor, chairman of the loan board, testified today before a senate banking committee.

The amount involved in these delinquent loans he said was approximately $275,250,000 or an average in excess of $3,000 each.

The committee on delinquent accounts among the 408,000 borrowers from the twelve banks he estimated at about 23 percent.

STATE WILL ADD MANY HIGHWAYS

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 23.—Within a month, 400 miles of county roads will be added to the state highway department's state system which now totals 11,340 miles, it was learned today.

Highway department officials have embarked upon their biennial task of adding 200 miles a year to the state system, and probably will have eliminated the unworthy requests before the end of January.

LEGAL NEWS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

UNIVERSITY STANDARDS UPHOLD

"This is a victory for the cause of public education," Attorney General Gilbert Bettman said when notified that the Court of Appeals of Butler-co had reversed the decision of the Common Pleas Court in the case of Jean West versus the Trustees of Miami University, which case determines the right of a tax-supported university to suspend a student for failure to meet reasonable scholastic requirements. "Had the erroneous decision of the court of Common Pleas been allowed to stand it might have had a most serious effect on the quality of education in Ohio's tax-supported universities."

Under the Court of Appeal's decision it is now established that tax-supported universities in Ohio have the same right as private colleges to dismiss students for failure to attain reasonable scholastic standards. In my opinion in no other way could our universities maintain themselves as universities. Scholastic standards are not created as punishments for the inept student—but as a help to the average student, to aid him to a real education and to the securing a university degree that will mean something more than that he spent his time and his father's money. These were the fundamental considerations that led me on behalf of the state—to intervene in the case after its loss in the Common Pleas Court to try to avert the danger which the decision of that court had in it for the cause of higher public education in Ohio."

NO EXTRADITION

A person who is on probation after having made a plea of guilty to a criminal charge, and who is under the jurisdiction of the court suspending the sentence and putting him on probation, cannot be extradited to the authorities of another state for a crime committed there until after the expiration of the probationary period, Attorney General Gilbert Bettman has ruled in an opinion to the prosecutor of Monroe-co.

MERIT RATING DEFENDED

Attorney General Gilbert Bettman has filed a brief with the Ohio Supreme Court in the case of the Fowhatan Mining Company of Cleveland versus The Industrial Commission of Ohio, in which he defends the constitutionality of the merit rating system which predicated the premiums to be paid by employers upon the industrial accident experience of those employees.

"The power to establish a merit rating system based upon the industrial accident experience of individual employees is authorized by the constitutional provision empowering the legislature to classify occupations according to their degree of hazard and to fix rates of contribution to the state fund according to such classification. The very best preventive measure is that which gives incentive to the individual employer to use every reasonable means possible to avoid accidents regardless of the fact that a particular operation may have many or no rules laid down in pursuance of law as to how it must be done."

JOBS INCOMPATIBLE

In an opinion to the prosecutor of Sandusky-co, Attorney General Gilbert Bettman held that the concurrent employment of a village clerk by the village council as caretaker of parks, and by the village board of trustees of public affairs as superintendent of the water department and as assistant superintendent of the light department, is in violation of law.

General Bettman based his opinion on one section of the General Code which provides that no member of the council board, officers or commissioners of the municipal corporation shall have any interest in the expenditure of money on the part of a corporation other than his fixed compensation.

NOT TO HANDLE FUNDS

Trustees of a county tuberculosis hospital have no authority to make deposits or to take a bond to secure deposits which are made irregularly, Attorney General Gilbert Bettman has ruled in an opinion to the prosecutor of Geauga-co.

"The prosecutor's inquiry was whether a surety company may be released from its obligation on a depository bond covering county tuberculosis hospital funds, and whether, in the event a release is obtainable, it is incumbent upon the trustees of the hospital to demand withdrawal of the money or substitution of surety."

"There is no authority extended to these trustees to handle any funds which are used for the maintenance of such hospital," General Bettman ruled in his opinion. "A hospital of this kind is a county institution and should be maintained from county funds by the county commissioners. In my opinion the custody of the funds so used is in the county treasurer, the same as any other surety funds, and should be deposited by him in the county depository in accordance with the laws relating to that subject."

"If, however, an irregular deposit is made and a bond taken to secure it, the surety on the said bond would be liable if a loss should occur," General Bettman held.

PROSECUTOR MAY ELECT

When a conflict arises between two of his clients, a county prosecutor may elect which one he will represent, and the other he will impel power to employ legal counsel for such litigation, Attorney General Bettman has held in an opinion to Dr. H. C. Southard, director of health. In the situation presented in Dr. Southard's inquiry, it became necessary for a general district board of health to bring a civil action against the board of county commissioners because of the refusal of the commissioners to make certain improvements in plumbing at a county home. The prosecuting attorney, as the legal representative of both bodies elected to represent the commissioners General Bettman held that the board of health may employ counsel to represent them, and that such counsel may be paid from any unappropriated funds in the general health district fund as are other expenses of the board.

Mother Martha Shops-

One of the most festive things about the Christmas season is the decoration. There is nothing more fragrant than evergreen tree and nothing prettier than a holly wreath. We girls went at decorating with a vengeance, today. But, the first thing, we went out to the Brehmer Greenhouses to order flowers sent to various friends and relatives. Brehmers are members of the Florists Telegraph Delivery and can give this service in any part of the world.

I sent my New England aunts pots of cyclamen and begonias. They have such beautiful blooms and the aunts love flowers. And I have several such friends in distant cities to whom I sent cut flowers. Chrysanthemums are especially beautiful this year and cost from $2.00 to $6.00 a dozen here. I sent half a dozen to Cleveland and a bouquet of Kansas City. There are beautiful yellow flowers at Brehmers, callendulas and poinsettias among them. I bought Mother a large primrose plant for $1.00. They have Jerusalem cherries potted at 25 cents the plant, and poinsettias for 35 and 50 cents a bloom or $1.00 a crock. I bought my housekeeper a clever thing here. It is called a strawberry jar and is a china pot with little side pockets around it filled with a variety of pretty plants, and costs $2.25.

When I went to get a cemetery wreath to put on my Father's grave, Mr. Brehmer told me that a good many people are putting Christmas baskets in their place this year. The baskets are pretty and cost only 50 cents. Wreaths cost 35 and 50 cents up for small ones and $1.50 up for large ones. I have already purchased several. I bought a pretty chandelier drop for 75 cents. They will make up any kind of floral decoration to order at a few minutes notice. And Brehmers have a splendid designer for corsages. Dan had a corsage of yellow roses made here for Dorothy for a formal affair last Christmas.

At the Triangle Flower Shop I ordered some cut flowers for the house. The tree is in the sun parlor where it shows off to best advantage. For the front room I bought a dozen deep red roses to put on the table and two bunches of lilies of the valley for either end of the piano. Then we ordered an immense bunch of violets to be set on the dressing table in the guest room. We can all pin violets on our coats when we go out. And our woman doesn't love to do that? Dorothy hopes Dan will send her orchids this year. Then she can wear them, both with her last year's yellow formal and this year's green one.

For my buffet I ordered, at the Triangle Shop, half a dozen each of red and white carnations. I can put the white ones in green water and make them more Christmasy. Here, too, I found both narcissus and some anti-freeze Prestone and some Mono Motor Oil. John wants to go out and fix up her car. Between you and me, I think he wants to borrow it again. This company sells Goodyear tires. The most popular priced are the 30X 4.50 at $7.05 and the all-weather tires, 18X5.00, at $8.25, are fine.

George and I like the Icy-Flo oil for 25 cents a quart at the Given Oil Company. They, too, sell Prestone. We found a gas tank cap to fit our tank, here. The old one looked so dowdy. And John is going to buy his grandmother some new U. S. Royal tires—and help her wear them out. This company has the whole line of U. S. tires. They come in three qualities—the Royal, the Peerless and the Guard. If, for instance, one was buying a tire 4.75X19 (the Royal) would cost $7.70, the Peerless, $6.65 and the Guard, $5.68. They tell me that they sell more tires for Fords and Chevrolets than anything else.

If something happens to us on any of the proposed trips, it won't be our fault, and perhaps the clean and shining car will keep our spirits as festive as the Christmas season demands.

TAXES SUBJECT OF FARM DISCUSSION

A net decrease of over five million dollars in actual tax money in 1932 over 1931, will result directly from the debt law, the budget law, the constitutional amendment putting a limitation of 15 mills on real estate and the exemption of personal property taxes, through advocacy of the Farm Bureau and enactment by the legislature, Murry D. Lincoln told Farm Bureau members and guests at the Clark-co Farm Bureau annual meeting held recently at Springfield, the Pickaway-co Farm Bureau is advised. "The reduction in valuation of real estate will amount to approximately another eight million dollars, or a total of thirteen million dollars less taxes to pay this year than last."

"We need the united support of all farmers, as well as other rural real estate owners, to demand a personal income tax and some other luxury taxes to still further reduce the tax on real estate. It is my opinion that we should not let up on this tax program until the real estate tax is approximately fifty per cent of what it has been," Mr. Lincoln said. He spoke also of the farmers' credit need at a "wholesale rate," and urged them, in addition to joining and supporting some effective agricultural organization, to have their farm business analyzed by farm management experts of the various universities.

Mr. Lincoln quoted a statement relative to the farmer's present position, just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, as follows:

"The farmer's position is rather strikingly sketched by certain index. The whole level of all commodities returned to practically the figure of 100. From the stand at 120. The index showing the prices of the farm products, is 125. Farm prices received by farmers for their products is approximately 70."

GAME CLOSE

As has been said the Tigers under Coach Herberholz came back in the last minute of the game to win by a 24-20 score. The game was tied 20-20 with one minute and five seconds to play. Seemingly changing into an almost new squad, the Red and Black in quick succession scored two goals before the Blue and White of New Holland was able to think. Purcell scored one from under the bucket and Bill Hegele dropped one from the middle of the floor. This game was and will probably be one of the closest encounters the Tigers will figure in this year, with the score tied most of the time, one team or the other leading by a point at various intervals. The Tigers started the game with a somewhat "Kingfish" attitude but after five minutes of play discovered that as far as the New Holland quint was concerned they were just another "Lightning".

BOTH WORK FAST

Both teams played and worked the ball fast, with New Holland contributing a number of potshots, as a result of loose guarding by Red and Black. The Herberholz men were able to maintain a lead at the end of each quarter, but the scores were close. They led at the half by a 13-10 score and at the third quarter ending the score was 16-15 with the Tigers still on the long end. French, a forward and Lewis, of New Holland a guard "got hot" in the last session hitting the hoop from the middle of the floor for several goals and at one time giving their team a five point lead. The Red and Black then began working a passing combination and was able to tie the score 20-20 with a minute to go. Purcell and Hegele added the necessary winning points.

DAVIS HIGH

Davis with ten points and Purcell with six were high scorers for the Red and Black and Lewis and French of New Holland with seven each were high for the opposition. According to the official score each team garnered eight field goals. Circleville completed eight fouls and New Holland four.

The Tigers will trek to Stoutsville this evening for a game with the Clearcreek-twps boys. A reserve game is also being planned. The game is called at 7:30 p. m.

Stivers Forward Leads Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 23.—The final curtain had fallen on Ohio state's pre-holiday basketball campaign today, the Buckeye cagers taking their last encore with a decisive 33 to 20 victory over Yale university, here last night.

They not only scored their third straight triumph of the season but brought joy to thousands of supporters by revealing a new star. When the season's prospects appeared darkest on account of Wilmer "Bill" Hosket, elongated center, being declared ineligible by the scholastic board, the cagers took the floor determined to continue their triumphs.

COLBURN TOO FAST

This they did, but in doing so brought forth a short, stocky forward named Colburn, a former star on the Dayton Stivers, state high school champions for three consecutive years, who was instrumental in drubbing the Blue five.

During the first half when play was listless and uninteresting, Colburn, from his stellar performance during the closing period, Coach Olsen must have administered an inspirational lecture to him in particular during that brief time.

BECOME UNCANNY

With Ohio leading 9 to 5, Colburn, ably assisted by his teammates removed all doubt of the Buckeye's superiority. His dribbling, passing, and accurate shooting not only thrilled the spectators but injected life into associates. They, too, crashed through, registering at will which was in direct contrast to the innumerable shots missed during the first half. Soon a substantial lead was rolled up and Coach Olsen shot in a number of substitutes.

With defeat staring them in the face, the sons of old Eli fought but tempted long shots in the closing minutes, several of which were successful, failed to check the scoring desire of their opponents.

While Colburn was the outstanding scorer for Ohio, Captain Hoffer easily demonstrated his supremacy on the floor. His close guarding stopped Yale several times, especially during the early part of the game when the Blue held a two point advantage.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up."

They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for five pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. ©1931, C. M. Co.

Christmas Was Different

Persons of today don't enjoy any better Christmas dinners than those of nearly four score years ago as Mr. Turkey was in order with all the "good trimmings." A large turkey could be bought for $1 and the rest of the food was much cheaper than today, according to Dr. Clarke. Paying $1 per dozen for spring chickens appeared "highway robbery" so to speak, in Dr. Clarke's boyhood.

WHAT BRANDY?

Plum puddings were also a big part of the Christmas dinner seventy years ago. Generally brandy was poured on the puddings and the host would light a match to it, the brandy burning. Then the pudding had been made officially eatable and was enjoyed by all. This was an old English custom and is rarely used today.

Seventy years ago the people wanted white Christmases and nothing else. Generally their wishes were granted as snow nearly always covered the ground on Dec. 25.

The chief entertainment during the holidays was taffy pulls, old-fashioned dances and other social parties.

On Christmas eve almost every resident in the town had a huge fire in the fireplace and members of the family would sit in front of the hearth thinking and talking about the next day.

leagues of the large fortune of money kept by the old farmer and his sister in their unprotected home, became overwhelmed with apparent grief and wept like a child. He repeated, time after time, "I'm sorry I did it. I'm sorry I did it. Oh, what made me do what I did. A million times I have wished I had never heard of the money this man had."

BECOMES PALE

But the giant negro, charged by the others held with him for the crime as being the murderer of John Kidney, besides turningslightly pale through the dark yellow of his face and being nervous, said not a word. Told by one of the officers that the spirit of the old gentleman was with them when his attackers were captured. Brown said "That's what I've been told."

He spoke not another word: his hands twitched nervously and he was in a great hurry to leave the cemetery, forcing the other two men who were manacled with him to walk as fast as possible to leave the grave.

Brown would not admit any complicity in the crime even at the grave.

TAKEN BEFORE SISTER

The huge man who is six feet three inches tall and weighs 212 pounds was taken before the sister of the man he is charged with beating to death. Miss Sarah Kidney, 70, badly beaten herself and

Brown fled into the room, with Loudermilk, both manacled to Hamilton. Miss Kidney looked from Brown to Loudermilk, ignoring Hamilton.

After a few moments she was asked if she had ever seen any of the men before. She said "I have."

SOUGHT WATER

Asked which one, Miss Kidney said that man on my left (meaning Loudermilk) and that other man on the right (meaning Brown). Asked where she saw them she replied that the white man, Loudermilk, had come to her home over a year ago seeking a drink of water which he was given. While there he asked how many lived in the house and how many rooms the residence had. When asked if those fact were true Loudermilk replied in the affirmative.

It will be remembered that while Loudermilk learned that Kidney had his money in his house over two years ago he took no action to obtain it until the middle of the past summer when the plot began to thicken and the negroes were included in his plans.

Loudermilk learned of Kidney's money from Dewey Yinger, a nephew of Phil Yinger at whose home Miss Kidney is now staying. Miss Kidney next turned her eyes toward the huge colored man and said "I have seen him too."

Asked when she replied "On the night John was killed."

Brown would not answer questions put to him after the incident at the Yinger home.

NATIVE OF FORT WAYNE

It has been learned that Brown is a native of Fort Wayne, Ind., going to Columbus from Portsmouth three months ago.

He admits that during the past few years he has been "bumming" around. In Portsmouth, he said he was arrested for bootlegging and laid in jail to serve out the fine.

A Lost Art
ADD to the list of lost or slowly passing American arts that of tattooing. It is one of the industries that will never come out of the depression, although by no stretch of the imagination can it attribute its darkest hours to the depression.
Leaving your mark on the human skin is like writing it in the shifting sands; your mortal canvas and masterpiece are soon gone. And such canvases are increasingly hard to find in this less robust and reckless age.
Tattooing belonged to a period of American life that has gone never to return. It is a reminder of sailing ships, longshore saloons, the old bawdy and Chinatown, and the early wagon circus. Gone is the hard-fisted old salt and the equally weather-beaten circus "rube" to whom a mermaid or Turkish dancer, tattooed upon a hairy chest or knobby arm was the same of physical adornment. The modern mariner is a son of the mechanical age, more sophisticated, more gentlemanly and with less of the savage in him.
What is true of those who go down to the sea in boats is also true of shore folk. The city hoodlums disdain tattooing and the turn-of-the-century elegance a la racketeer, and the country boy no longer seeks expression through patronizing the tattooist's art.

Best Investment
THOUGH real estate inflation and deflation result in losses to the unwary, it is still true that the best investment on earth is the earth itself.
In few, if any, communities today is real estate to be sold at the inflated values of five years ago and the person who bought at peak prices and is forced to sell on the present market must take a loss. But if history repeats itself, as it has never failed to do in the past, those peak prices of the last boom will be exceeded in the next.
One of the seven wonders of America is the rise in a century of the value of the land within the present limits of Chicago. Right now the latter figure may be a little excessive but when business returns it will again be an inadequate estimate.
Prof. Homer Hoyt, prominent economist, has shown by an exhaustive study of Chicago real estate history that after every depression the city's land values have reached a higher peak than ever before. This is true of every city.
Despite occasional fits of wild speculation, real estate values enjoy a solid and steady growth compared with other forms of property. The current depression has forced them down but a fraction of the drop suffered by securities. They may freeze in an economic blizzard, but they never melt to the vanishing point.
Christmas Spirit
CHRISTMAS buying and giving has suffered as a consequence of the depression and securities deflation, which is all the more reason why there is a bull market in the true Christmas spirit.
When the country was prosperous, poverty virtually unknown and everyone was busy shopping, wrapping, mailing and entertaining or being entertained there was no room for the good old-fashioned Christmas spirit. It was crowded out by more materialistic and worldly things.
This year with less of the where-withal the real significance of the season is impressed upon the minds of both giver and receiver. It is, indeed, more blessed to give than to receive this Christmas. Not what one gives, but what one shares will count today.
From the sacrifices, little and great and the acts of charity, the generosity taking place on all sides the nation will derive a better appreciation of the meaning of Christmas.

The CZARINA'S RUBIES

by Sidney Warwick

READ THIS FIRST

Frank Severn has been kidnaped from his country home, Beggar's Court, where his lawyer, Felix Sant, takes charge. Jim Wynter and his friend Bill Grayson, search the place and find a hidden stairway and a locked door in the ruins of an ancient chapel. They begin to suspect Sant of being in league with the kidnapers when a wall "accidentally" falls, blocking this door, and become convinced of it when they find in his desk an anonymous letter addressed to Wynter, which obviously had been held up because it gave warning that Sant was not to be trusted.
Grayson, his wife, Wynter and Katherine Faring take a house, Manorways, near Beggar's Court. Katharine is the rightful owner of the missing Carina Rubies, by inheritance from her Russian grandfather, and Severn had tried to recover them for her.
Martin, Sant's servant, and a thug named Frome make a vain attempt to assassinate Wynter, and Grayson decides to ask a Scotland Yard detective for help. This is promised him. Wynter wonders if Severn's sketch of a fish and key in a letter to Katharine is a clue to the hiding place of the rubies.

NOW GO ON

CHAPTER XLV

A fish with a key in its mouth. If a clue, it was far too exasperatingly obscure to convey any more meaning to him than it had done to Katharine. The only result of three minutes' hard concentrated thought was to corrugate Jim's brow with frowning wrinkles.
"Oh, damn!" he said suddenly. "I don't believe that damned fish means or was intended to mean anything. Just a leg-pull of Frank's—and that's all there is to it."
He dismissed it absolutely but not too easily from his mind and began the business of his morning toilet. Milly was the only one late for breakfast—losing no time, as Jim remarked, in commencing her rest cure. Their stay at Manorways was to be no rest cure for Bill, who had to go out to town almost immediately after breakfast, and would not be back much before seven that evening. Jim noticed him over to the neighboring town to catch the one fast train, and spent the remaining hours till lunch time in the car with Katharine.
He spoke again of that intriguing spy. Somehow it haunted him. In spite of himself the possibility that it might be a clue persisted in recurring in his mind.

HAUNTING

"That blessed fish swam through my dreams all night," Jim told her. "Katharine, what if it should be a clue to those lost Carina Rubies? I can't rid myself of a sort of hunch that it is—and that what was put in the letter as a jest has now suddenly become of serious and vital importance. If so, the fish constitutes the clue, of course, the key merely indicating the fact. Brilliant brain work that—but I'm afraid it doesn't get us much forwarder!" With a rueful grin.
"But what fish could there be at Monksilver?" Katharine asked helplessly.
"Well, there have been some very queer fish there lately—only not the kind of fish that Frank could mean!" he laughed. "Look here, Katharine, we'll run over to Monksilver. Once on the spot something might suggest itself. Pity we can't take Sant into our councils. Probably if he mentioned the word 'fish' to Sant, who knows Monksilver inside out, he'd dash unerringly to the spot with screams of joy. We can't manage it today unfortunately—but we'll go tomorrow and angle for that elusive fish! We've got to find those royal rubies or yours Katharine—just got to!"
"I wish we could," Katharine sighed—and not only for her own selfish reasons. I should hate you to lose over your 'gamble,' as you call it, Jim.

"But what fish could there be at Monksilver?" Katharine asked helplessly.

"Oh, that little flutter of ours? Don't worry about that. Bless you, Milly, Bill and I are already counting on pouching our winnings!" Jim responded with a laugh. "As I haven't a doubt we shall, of course—even if Frank's weird fish should prove nothing more than a fish!"

UNSELFISH

But it was for Katharine's sake, not because of that two hundred and fifty of his and the Graysons' that represented the "flutter" in question, that Jim Wynter was devoutly hoping he might be a true prophet.
For Katharine's sake, chief—but for other reasons too. In his mind was the thought of Federoff's devoted loyalty that had revealed those rubies when disaster and death had come winged to the house of Murnov. . . . of that same unswerving loyalty that in more than ten years later, in his efforts to restore those priceless jewels to the last of the Murnov line, had cost Federoff his life—when he had died still guarding them. It might be, too, that Frank Severn's fate was bound up with those blood-red stones. Intolerable to think of their sacrifices being in vain.
Yet though he had spoken with apparent confidence to Katharine, Jim knew but too well that probably her chance of ever recovering that gift from . . . royal house hung on only a slender thread—or whether they succeeded in getting Frank Severn out of those merciless hands alive. And that was on the knees of the gods.

Bill hoped to see Inspector Haste that day.
It was true they had found out far more than they could have reasonably hoped for in so short a time—thanks chiefly to luck and that unknown correspondent who seemed so determined to remain anonymous. But the difficulty was to get definite proof of their suspicions. That they were up against a problem calling for all the expert advice and help they could get both realized.
Possibly the key to the mystery lay behind that door ground open in the ruins that Sant had been so determined they should not open.

Fine Health Is Good Gift

Remember Today That Sound Physical Condition Is Greatest Blessing.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

IN the beautiful account given by St. Luke, we learn the story of Jesus' birth and early life. In quaint words he said: "And the child grew and waxed strong in spirit; and the grace of God was upon him."
No greater gift could possibly be given loving parents on this Christmas Day, than to know that their child is to follow in the footsteps of Jesus. To grow, to wax strong, to merit the favor of God—there is little else to pray for in the life of any child.
Believing that gifts of health and goodness are largely acquired and not inherited, I tell you in all confidence that physical growth, mental development and vigor of mind and body are within reach of almost every child. With pure blood and fine physique come strength and clean thinking.
It is within your power to have your boy or girl grow and wax strong and be blessed with the grace of God. If you do your duty in the training of your child, you may share the joys of Mary and Joseph, of blessed memory.
Most of the Soviet teachings are obnoxious to me. To make the child the ward of the State is unthinkable. But, in one particular, I must admit there may be merit in that word doctrine. Parental love, in too many instances, makes for softness and incapacity to exercise that discipline without which the child will be spoiled.

"As the twig is bent—"
It requires firmness and almost inflexible insistence to drill into the young mind the importance of good habits. And it is certainly true that "as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined." Pope was right about that.
To build character and physique for the child requires character and good physical habits on the part of the parents. If you give example, as well as precept, your offspring will have gifts far more precious than the gold, frankincense and myrrh which the wise men presented to Jesus.
Health comes first in the list of human blessings. While that may be counted as something merely physical, it is after all, at the very foundation of mental and spiritual perfection.
On this Christmas Day, let each of us who is in a prospect of a parent, promise self and God that every effort shall be made to teach health to the young lives placed in our keeping. Then we too may expect the grace of God to fall upon us.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Screaming, frenzied cannibals—doom in a pit of alligators—jungle beats—a devastating fire at sea—a wild quest for a radium are only a few of the thrills numbered in Universal's red-blooded chapter play, "Danger Island," coming to chapter, Friday and Saturday.
In the wilds of Africa, the story concerns an unscrupulous clubman and his equally unscrupulous gang who attempt to wrest a map of the precious metal's charted location from the scientists-discoverer's daughter, Lucile Browne.
A virile young sea captain, Kenneth Harlan, is confronted with the enormous task of saving both the girl and the metal from the villainous hands of her enemies, and is eventually confronted also with the fact that he loves the girl.

O. E. S. HAS ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PARTY

During the meeting of the Circleville chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star held Tuesday evening, Mrs. G. L. Schear, retiring Grand Representative of Florida, was presented with a gift in recognition of the honor her appointment had meant to the local chapter. Mrs. Schear has held this office in the Grand Chapter for the past three years.

After the meeting a Christmas party was enjoyed by the members and was voted a splendid success by all, who were fortunate enough to attend. A delightful musical program was a feature of the entertainment. The song, "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was illustrated by a picture and was sung by Miss Mary Mae Haswell. Little Virginia, captivated her hearers by her innocence charm and grace.

The solo, "The Song the Angels Sang," sung by Mrs. Alice Ward, was greatly enjoyed by all. Her singing was artistic and Mrs. Ward sang in splendid voice. The anticipations of the audience were quite fulfilled when the Good Will Quartet of male voices, composed of C. E. Cleary, first tenor, P. B. Timmons, second tenor, E. Y. Radcliffe, first bass and C. P. Carter, second bass, rendered several selections in a most acceptable manner. This quartet has gained much recognition throughout the state having broadcasted at all the radio stations in Columbus, and was awarded the first prize at the last annual meeting of the Eisteddfod held in Jackson, O.

They were further honored by special commendation of the coadjutor of the Eisteddfod. During the program carols were sung by those present. This feature was spontaneous and enthusiastic. After the program all adjourned to the red room where gifts were exchanged and popcorn balls and candy were served around the beautifully lighted Christmas tree.

At the close the room was darkened except for lights of the tree while the quartet sang "Holy Night" in a manner impressive and beautiful.
